INTRODUCTION

They are like locusts, roaming the galaxy, attacking unsuspecting worlds, using up their resources and moving on.

Now they have come to Earth.

Just twenty-four hours ago, their fleet of giant City Destroyer spacecraft assumed strategic positions above all the world's major cities, threatening to annihilate millions unless the people of Earth can unite in time to repel the invasion. But the clock is ticking.

Fortunately, an important first step in combating the aliens has been achieved: a virus has been delivered to the Mother Ship's central computer, weakening the shield strength of the City Destroyers. Now it's up to you to finish the job. As an ace fighter pilot, you and your wingman, Steve Hiller, must battle through the remaining alien defenses, finish off the shields and take out each city destroyer before time runs out. To accomplish your various mission objectives, you will have an arsenal of state-of-the-art weaponry at your disposal. Your most valuable weapons, however, will still be your wits, your courage, and your instincts.

Good luck. The citizens of earth are counting on you.
